T; the Cuticura Remedies I Owe My Health, My Happiness, and My Life.

A day never passes that I do not think and speak kindly of the Cuticura Remedies. Seven years ago all of a dozen lumps formed on my neck, ranging in size from a cherry stone to an orange. The large ones were frightful to look at, and painful to bear; people turned aside when they saw me, in disgust, and I was ashamed to be on the street or in society. Physicians and their treatment and all medicines failed to do any good. In a moment of despair I tried the Cuticura Remedies—Cuticura, the great Skin Cure, and Cuticura Soap, an exquisite Skin Cure, and Cuticura Soap, an exquisite Skin Cure, and Cuticurally, and Cuticura e benefit of humanity, where the Cut temedies shall be sold only, so that there rarely a need of ever entering a dru M. The day of genuine snuggling is gone. The smuggler of the boy's remains of the can, who selled in a "dark, suspicious looking craft" and had a cave hid somewhere far away, where he stored his goods and held dark conclaves at might, has passed away, and there are those who believe he never stopped. Only now they do not go in gangs and sail their own ships. They do not wear red shirts and cutiasses nowadays. They are entirely respectable people, and go in the best society. They wear fine clothes and diamonds, and are very friendly with the customs officers. The strongling is now done mostly by fashionable people who travel and by business men.

thing twice over, to make sure that nothing bas been missed or dropped on the way, or wrongly conceived or interpreted. And if the subject be serious, it is often well to let an interval clapse. Ideas, relations, state-ments of fact are not to be taken by storm. We have to steep them in the mind, in the hope of thus extracting their inmost essence and significance. If one lets an interval pass, and then returns, it is surprising how clear and ripe that has become which, when we left it, seemed crude, obscure, and full of perplexity.

All this takes trouble, no doubt; but then, it will not do to deal with ideas that we find in books or elsewhere as a certain bird does with its eggs-leaves them in the sand for the sun to hatch and chance to rear. People who follow this plan possess nothing better than ideas half hatched and convictions reared by accident. They are like a man who should pace up and down the world in the delusion that he is clad in sumptuous robes of purple and velvet, and when in truth he is only half covered by the rags and tatters of other people's castoff clothes. - John Morley.
